“ When my mother was in the hospital I was always shuttled up to stay with Hank or Mad. If I was sent to Proctor and Larry would take me on his truck to deliver gas or fuel oil. It was the highlight of my summer. If we were at the bulk plant, while Larry was in the office I would run and jump from one tank to the next. I though it was great fun. But the greatest of the great was going to his house for lunch, Mac and Cheese. One time I got to go with Pat and Larry to Larry's cabin. We took a convertible with the top, which I thought was unbelievable for a kid my age. Larry's first cousin, Michael Haas.
